Special category data

Certain types of personal data are considered more sensitive and so are subject to additional levels of protection under data protection legislation. These are known as 'special categories of data' and include data concerning your health, racial or ethnic origin, genetic data and sexual orientation. Data relating to criminal convictions or offences is also subject to additional levels of protection.

We may process:

- health information and lifestyle information when providing intermediary services in relation to a protection insurance product; and/or annuity products.

In addition to the lawful basis for processing this information set out in the above table, we will be processing it either (i) for the purpose of advising on, arranging or administering an insurance contract or (ii) for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

In some circumstances we may process your data to protect the vital interests of a person or for a substantial public interest under laws that apply to us where this helps us to meet our broader social obligations or safeguard others, such as:

- processing of special categories of personal data such as about your health or if you are a vulnerable customer
- when we share your personal information with other people and organisations, such as your relatives, social services, your carer, the person who has control of your affairs e.g. power of attorney, court appointed deputy, someone with parental responsibility, if they need to know that you are a vulnerable customer; and
- When we share your personal information with other organisations to help prevent and detect fraud or financial crime.

Marketing

We may use personal data we hold about you to provide you with details of products and services from us that may be of interest to you. We will only do so where we have obtained your consent and will do so in accordance with any marketing preferences you have provided to us.

In addition, where you provided your consent, we may provide you with details of products and services of third parties where they may be of interest to you.

You can opt out of receiving marketing at any time. If you wish to amend your marketing preferences, please contact us:

Cookies

When you visit the AFH website we may use a short text file called a 'cookie' which is downloaded to your computer. Many websites do this, because cookies facilitate useful features such as the ability to identify whether a user has successfully logged into the site or to find out whether the computer (and probably its user) has visited the website before.

During the course of your visit, we (and our service providers) may use cookies and other technologies to automatically collect the following information:

Technical information, including your IP address, your login information, browser type and version, device identifier, location and time zone setting, browser plug-in types and versions, operating system and platform, page response times and download errors;

Information about your visit, including the websites you visit before our website and the components of our website you viewed during your visit; the number of visits, length of visits to certain pages, pages viewed, page interaction information (such as scrolling, clicks and mouseovers) and methods used to browse away from the page; and similar information for additional content that can be accessed from website pages, such as opening or printing pages or documents.

Your personal information is important to us and will be used solely by us. Under no circumstances will your personal information be sold or used by any other organisation.

If you wish to find out further information on how we process your data please go to our cookie policy here.

Whether information has to be provided by you and how we share your information

We will tell you if providing some personal data is optional, including if we ask for your consent to process it. In all other cases, you must provide your personal data in order for us to provide you with intermediary services.

In order to, provide you with our services and comply with our legal obligations, we need to share your personal data with others. We have listed examples above, of who we need to share your personal information with and why this is necessary. Whenever we share your data, we require all third parties to respect the security of your personal data and to treat it in accordance with the law.

Some of the organisations we share your data and act as either a controller of the information or act as processors of your information. Processors are not allowed to use your personal data for their own purposes and can only process your personal data for the reasons it was collected. If they are a controller of the information, this means they will need to determine themselves how to use your personal information lawfully.

How long your personal data will be kept

We will hold your personal data for differing periods of time depending upon the reason we have for processing it. These retention periods are set out below.

We will usually retain your information for a period of up to 9 years from the point at which AFH are no longer deemed to be your servicing agent, dependent upon the type of product you have been advised upon.

If you are unsure of who your servicing agent is, you can contact us or alternatively speak to your provider.

Where we have provided you with advice or services relating to pensions transfers, conversions, opt-outs of Free-Standing Additional Voluntary Contribution Schemes, we may retain your information indefinitely in order to comply with our legal and regulatory obligations in relation to these products.

International Transfers

We are based in the United Kingdom; however, some of our service providers are located outside the UK. As a result, your personal data may be transferred to countries outside the UK.

Where we transfer personal data internationally, we ensure that appropriate safeguards are in place to protect your information in accordance with UK data protection law. These safeguards may include:

- Transfer to countries that have been deemed to provide an adequate level of protection by the UK Government; or
- The use of approved contractual mechanisms, such as the UK International Data Transfer Agreement (IDTA) or Standard Contractual Clauses.

We also carry out transfer risk assessments to evaluate whether the laws and practices in the recipient country may affect the level of protection for your personal data.

Further details about the countries to which your data may be transferred, and the safeguards we use, can be obtained by contacting us.

What should you do if your personal information changes?

You should tell us without delay, so that we can update our records. So that we can maintain accurate records of your personal data. We are unable to provide you with our services, without accurate records of your personal information. Your personal information is required before you can enter into the relevant contract with us, or it is required during the life of that contract, or it is required by laws that apply to us.

Your rights

You have legal rights under data protection regulation in relation to your personal data. These are set out under the below headings:

- to access personal data
- to correct / erase personal data
- to restrict how we use personal data
- to object to how we use personal data
- to ask us to transfer personal data to another organisation
- to object to automated decisions
- to understand how we protect information transferred outside UK

- to find out more about how we use personal data.

We may ask you for proof of identity when making a request to exercise any of these rights. We do this to ensure we only disclose information or change your details where we know we are dealing with the right individual.

We will not ask for a fee other than in exceptional circumstances.

We aim to respond to all valid requests within the required regulatory timeframe. We will always let you know if we think a response will take an extended period of time. To speed up our response, we may ask you to provide more detail about what you want to receive or are concerned about.

We may not always be able to fully address your request, for example if it would impact the duty of confidentiality we owe to others, or if we are otherwise legally entitled to deal with the request in a different way.

To access personal data

You can ask us to confirm whether or not we have and are using your personal data. You can also ask to get a copy of your personal data from us and for information on how we process it.

To rectify / erase personal data

You can ask that we rectify any information about you which is incorrect. We will be happy to rectify such information but would need to verify the accuracy of the information first.

You can ask that we erase your personal data if you think we no longer need to use it for the purpose we collected it from you.

You can also ask that we erase your personal data if you have either withdrawn your consent to us using your information (if we originally asked for your consent to use your information), or exercised your right to object to further legitimate use of your information, or where we have used it unlawfully or where we are subject to a legal obligation to erase your personal data.

We may not always be able to comply with your request, for example where we need to keep using your personal data in order to comply with our legal obligation or where we need to use your personal data to establish, exercise or defend legal claims.

To restrict our use of personal data

You can ask that we restrict our use of your personal data in certain circumstances, for example:

- where you think the information is inaccurate and we need to verify it;

- where our use of your personal data is not lawful but you do not want us to erase it;
- where the information is no longer required for the purposes for which it was collected but we need it to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
- where you have objected to our use of your personal data but we still need to verify if we have overriding grounds to use it.

We can continue to use your personal data following a request for restriction where we have your consent to use it; or we need to use it to establish, exercise or defend legal claims, or we need to use it to protect the rights of another individual or a company.

To object to use of personal data

You have the right to ask us to review and explain our legitimate interests to you where we are collecting, storing and using your personal data on a legitimate interest basis, including where we collecting, storing and using for profiling or by automated means. You have the right to object to our legitimate interests and that collection, storage and use unless we can demonstrate that we have compelling legitimate interests to use the personal data. You also have the right to object to us sending you marketing communications as stated above.

To request a transfer of personal data

You can ask us to provide your personal data to you in a structured, commonly used, machine-readable format, or you can ask to have it transferred directly to another data controller (e.g. another company).

You may only exercise this right where we use your personal data in order to perform a contract with you, or where we asked for your consent to use your personal data. This right does not apply to any personal data which we hold or process outside automated means.

Security and Data Privacy

We have put in place appropriate security measures to prevent your personal information from being accidentally lost, used or accessed in an unauthorised way, altered or disclosed. You can ask for a copy of, or reference to, the safeguards we have put in place when your personal data is transferred outside of the UK. We are not required to share details of these safeguards where sharing such details would affect our commercial position or create a security risk.

Some of the measures we use are:

- ensuring all IT facilities are protected
- ensuring security of our website and portals

- training and procedures are provided to staff, ensuring that understanding and responsibility of our staff to protect the confidentiality of personal data and how they handle the information
- ensuring appropriate procedures and policies are in place to support staff with handling personal data and how to handle suspected data security breaches.

Use of Artificial Intelligence and advancing technologies

With the ever-changing advancements in technology and the introduction of artificial intelligence (AI), we continually explore new avenues of innovation to enhance our services and operations for our clients. Our commitment to adopting cutting edge tools is balanced by a rigorous approach to data protection and privacy.

We investigate a broad range of advancing technologies, which may include:

- machine learning and predictive analytics
- natural language processing and conversational agents
- automated decision-making systems
- process automation and intelligent workflows

All evaluation and deployment of these technologies adhere to UK General Data Protection Regulation (UK GDPR) and the Data Protection Act 2018. Prior to introduction any new system that processes personal data, we carry out a Data Protection Impact Assessment (DPIA) to identify and mitigate privacy risks.

Where a new technology entails high risk processing, we will seek your explicit consent or rely on another legal basis for processing under UK GDPR and this will be detailed in our privacy notice.

We regularly review our use of emerging technologies, updating this privacy notice and our internal policies to reflect legal developments and best practices. If you have any questions on how we handle your personal data in connection with AI, please contact our Data Protection Officer.

You can contact us for more information

If you are not satisfied with the level of information provided in this privacy notice, you can ask us about what personal data we have about you, what we use your information for, who we disclose your information to, whether we transfer it abroad, how we protect it, how long we keep it for, what rights you have, how you can make a complaint, where we got your data from and whether we have carried out any automated decision making using your personal data.

If you would like to exercise any of the above rights, please:

- email or write to our Data Protection Officer at: privacy@afhgroup.com or:

AFH House
Buntsford Drive
Stoke Heath
Bromsgrove
Worcestershire
B60 4JE

- let us have enough information to identify you, e.g. name, address, date of birth.
- let us have proof of your identity and address (a copy of your driving licence or passport and a recent utility or credit card bill); and
- let us know the information to which your request relates.

Complaints

If you have any concerns about how we handle your personal data, if you wish to contact our Data Protection Officer, please send an email to privacy@afhgroup.com or write to:

AFH House
Buntsford Drive
Stoke Heath
Bromsgrove

Do we do any monitoring that involves processing of your personal information?

We may monitor where permitted by law and we will do this where the law requires it. In particular where we are required by the Financial Conduct Authority's regulatory regime to record certain telephone lines or in person meetings (as relevant) we will do so.

Some of our monitoring may be to comply with regulatory rules, self-regulatory practices or procedures relevant to our business, to prevent or detect crime, in the interests of protecting the security of our communications systems and procedures and for quality control and staff training purposes.

Keeping your personal data secure

We have appropriate security measures in place to prevent personal data from being accidentally lost, or used or accessed in an unauthorised way. We limit access to your personal data to those who have a genuine business need to know it. Those processing your information will do so only in an authorised manner and are subject to a duty of confidentiality.

We also have procedures in place to deal with any suspected data security breach. We will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected data security breach where we are legally required to do so.

How to contact us

Please contact our Data Protection Officer if you have any questions about this privacy notice or the information we hold about you.
